Summary

Full Stack Web Developer with a background in Sociology, Education, Business, Social Behavior, and Customer Service. A trend that I notice after backpacking around 30 countries is that technology and computer science are taking over the world; so I want to be a part of the technology evolution to help shape the world into a more modern and productive environment and I am eager to begin my career as a Developer with a fast-paced collaborative team where I can make an impact as well as learn from others.
